

Jtech Protection Services

Jtech Services are primarily known for the manufacture, supply and installation of their LST (Low Surface Temperature) Radiator Guards & Pipe Boxing systems that have been installed in many schools, hospitals and nursing homes throughout the UK.

Less well known though are our interior fit out products and services. Focusing on special designs for specific applications, a whole range of products are available.

Take for example the ordinary Stainless Steel Kick Plate that is used on practically all doors. Whilst purely a functional item, with a little design and imagination this can be made into a much more attractive feature.

A detailed measure and template is created for approval and then used in manufacture to make sure of a good fit when it arrives on site.

It may not be a product or service that is often required, but if you are a facilities manager or caretaker of a high traffic environment it is good to know that there are these products available that can make your building stand out as unique.
